

eTurns TrackStock eLabels

Electronic Shelf Labels for CMI replenishment

Electronic shelf labels, or eLabels, create a replenishment order with the push of a button. They are convenient for doing customer-managed inventory replenishment (CMI) in dispersed stocking locations where SensorBins may not be practical, where spreadsheets take too much time, and where QR code scanning is not desired.

TrackStock has 4 plans with different levels of automated replenishment

Benefits of TrackStock eLabels

Save time: press a button to trigger auto-replenishment from any supplier

Eliminate labor: Use less labor with self-service CMI. Users press a button

Reduce inventory: Cut your inventory in half by eliminating 2-bin kanban

Smart replenishment with Min/max: min/max, par levels, and package quantities are recorded in TrackStock and used by the eLabel for replenishment

Electronic Shelf Labels have a button that triggers immediate digital orders

How it works

1. The 1st button press creates a suggested order in the TrackStock Cart and blocks additional button presses creating further orders. "On order" message appears in red.
2. If the button is pressed but the item is back-ordered at the supplier, the supplier can send TrackStock an EDI 855 backorder transaction. "Backordered" replaces "On Order" in red.
3. When the supplier knows they can ship the ordered quantity, the supplier can send TrackStock an EDI 856 ASN (Advanced Shipment Notification). This transaction will have TrackStock replace the "Backordered" message with "Shipped". Techs still cannot create a new order with a button press.
4. When the material is received by the customer, the customer performs a "Receive" on the mobile device or the web. This transaction increments the on-hand quantity for the item and then TrackStock removes the "Shipped" message on the eLabel .
